

Processes dealing with language formation and development and its structure; its historical characteristics and attributes; similarity with other languages of certain language group; its specific peculiarities.