GENNADII GOLUB REPORT

In his report “Directions for the devepment of scientific and technological activities in agroingeneering” Professor G. Golub spoke about the close ties in the implementation of educational and scientific activities within the HEI-TREATY project "Nurturing deep tech talents for clean and sustainable energy transition". He described in detail his vision of the university's role in the process of training scientific personnel, generating new knowledge and implementing these results in the process of training highly qualified engineering personnel, in particular, for the agricultural production sectors of Ukraine. The importance of this work is well understood by our foreign partners, which is why Ukrainian educators and scientists feel their constant attention and support.
